

AVID student of the Month

September

Angela Nguyen

Angela Nguyen was selected as an AVID student of the month for September 2014. She originally got invited to apply for AVID as a 6th grader. Although unsure of the program at first, Angela jumped both feet in during the 7th grade and has never looked back! She says that one of the biggest advantages to being a part of AVID is the family environment. She has many friends that she met during her 7th grade year in AVID. Currently a senior here at Sprague, Angela is glad that she was willing to put forth a little extra work in the beginning to become a part of the AVID family. Putting in extra work is something Angela has gotten used to, as she has taken a list of AP classes while here at Sprague. She has already taken AP stats, AP environmental science, AP English and AP art history. Wow! Way to go Angela! Aside from the high school credit, taking an AP course gives high school students here at Sprague an opportunity to earn college credit.

Angela obviously cares about her education and claims her motivation comes from her desire to get out of her parent's house. She has enjoyed living with them, but looks forward to moving for college and getting out of the house. She has taken advantage of the college visit opportunities provided through the AVID program throughout the years. She hopes to go to Oregon State University and study environmental engineering.

Outside of school, Angela enjoys spending time volunteering and helping out her community. She also works out regularly in order to stay in shape for racquetball. Great job so far Angela! We are all proud that you represent Oly Nation and wish you the best of luck moving forward!
